

Officials to Contact with Your Complaints about KNC
Town of Keystone (council@keystoneco.gov). Note that Councilwoman Valerie Thisted has been very open to hearing comments on this issue, and as a long-time Keystone resident, she is very invested in the town's long-term wellbeing.
Mayor Ken Riley (kriley@keystoneco.gov). In my experience, Mayor Riley holds his personal alliances with Vail Resorts very dear, in some cases, in my opinion, to the detriment of the homeowners of Keystone. See emails (links are on the website) where Riley solicits Mark Matthews' involvement on the Keystone Design Review Board, despite having already received a very adequate number of applications from others (that weren't employed by Vail Resorts or their agents).
Manager John Crone (jcrone@keystoneco.gov). Similarly, Manager Crone has followed Mayor Riley's lead in saying that there is nothing that the town of Keystone can do regarding KNC. This is simply wrong! All towns in Colorado, by our state regulations, must not hinder the ability of their property owners to maintain and improve their homes. All of us know that the taxes that KNC levies upon us seriously inhibit the ability of our own HOAs to maintain our own communities. Most of us pay the equivalent of a full two to three months of HOA fees to KNC every year, money which doesn't benefit us. (As a Board member for the Red Hawk Lodge last year, I could go on and on with examples of how our HOA really needed that money instead.)
Colorado State Senator Dillon Roberts (senatordylanroberts@gmail.com). We are lucky that Senator Roberts represents Summit County because he is a huge government transparency advocate for all Coloradans. Remember – the KNC is subject to state transparency requirements because it is a common-interest community. Yet KNC refuses to provide a full financial audit of our reserves. KNC also hides behind in-person-only annual meetings to limit member involvement and comment. I believe these are objections that Senator Roberts can help us with.
Colorado House Representative Julie McCluskey (julie.mccluskie.house@coleg.gov). Representative McCluskey serves Summit County in the state house, and we are lucky that she is also the Speaker of the House.
Governor Jared Polis (Governor's Office gov.marcomm@governor.colorado.gov). The governor's office has made the goals of reduced taxation and boosting housing construction planks of his administration. That the town of Keystone is facilitating this duplicate taxation scheme on us, while not pushing Vail Resorts to do its fair share on providing housing for its own workers, may be of interest to the Governor.
